

Statue Statute Doubted

*Sentinel
9/18/65*

Among six persons arrested by police in connection with the Performing Arts Center opening was a 21 year old woman, arrested when a group of youths attempted to unveil the Seymour Lipton statue prior to its scheduled unveiling.

Atty. James Shellow, representing the young woman, told a reporter, "My client knows of no statute that says statues have to be unveiled at a certain time."

Police said the young woman would be charged with disorderly conduct.